Flood waters too close for comfort

The North Saskatchewan River came within a nervewracking three feet from the road level at Heinsburg this weekend, while west of Highway 41 the water covered the road in numerous places and crept toward farmyards.

Sherry and Lorne Young of Heinsburg, who live just across the road from the river, spent an exhausting weekend keeping tabs on the rising waters. They watched the river all Sunday night until it peaked in the early daylight hours, as well as making anxious journeys eastward to the Lea Park Bridge to check on conditions there, and dealing with a steady stream of visitors and phone calls from those worried about the flood. The Youngs' were also in frequent touch with Alberta Environment's river forecasting centre and the Elk Point RCMP detachment, throughout the weekend.

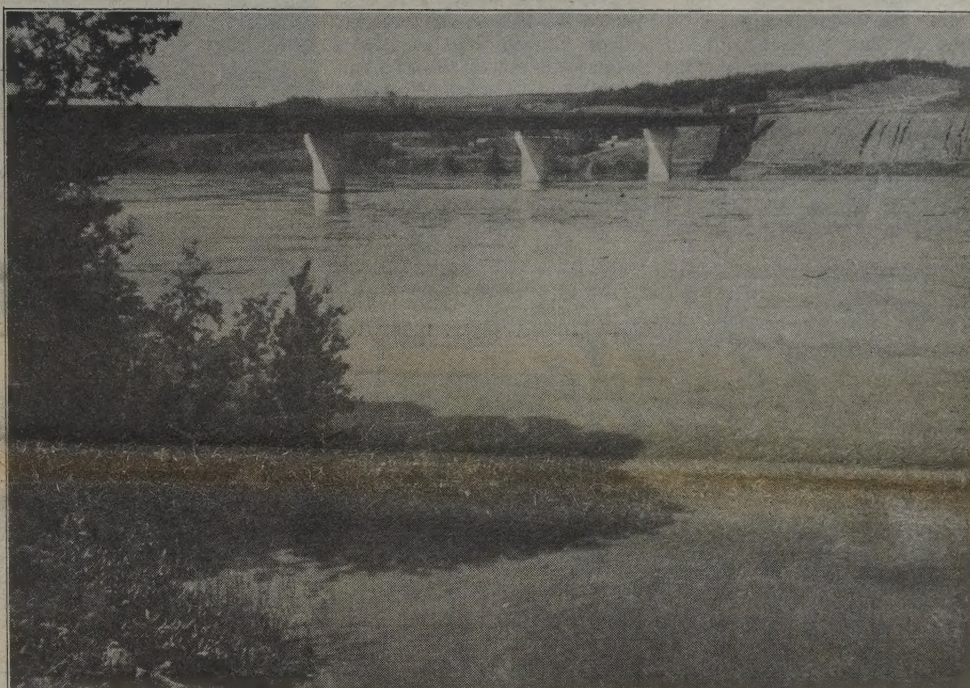

Heinsburg School and several teacherages were also in immediate danger of flooding, with staff members still in the area alerted to help move equipment to higher ground if necessary.

At press time, Mrs. Young said the river had dropped six feet and Heinsburg is heaving great sighs of relief.

West of Elk Point, the riverside farmyard of Helen and Roland Havener was also within three feet of the water. The murky floodtide, "smelling just like a sewer", was creeping through a culvert toward the farm's source of drinking water, Mrs. Havener said. She added that "We had all the trucks lined up ready to load what we could and get out" if the water continued to rise. On Saturday, the level was coming up at a rate of nine inches per hour.

Elk Point RCMP Sergeant Doug Huskins said the flood peaked at 6:30 a.m. Monday, with no evacuations reported and no police action necessary, although the detachment monitored the situation closely and made frequent patrols.

RIISING WATERS — Of the North Saskatchewan River came within a mere 3 feet of flooding homes and farms in the Elk Point and Heinsburg areas over the weekend. Fortunately, no evacuations were necessary and the river is receding at press time.

Oil companies remain optimistic

Optimism remains the name of the game as far as oil companies financing heavy oil recovery projects in the Elk Point area are concerned. But with world oil prices at the moment still showing no sign of recovery after a six-month slump, that optimism is being stretched to the limit.

"We're holding the line as best we can," David Annesley of Dome Petroleum told the Journal Tuesday.

And, that's pretty much the story with all the oil companies operating in the Lindbergh oil field.

According to Annesley, Dome has ceased all further drilling activity but has 329 wells currently producing and 46 employees still on site at its Lindbergh project. He said the company will be making no changes in its present strategy over the summer but in the fall the company will evaluate its projects against the world oil prices and act accordingly.

"As we've already suggested, we are going to review everything in the fall. Maybe by then we'll have some kind of indication as to what oil prices are doing," Annesley.

Byron Mann of Westmin Resources said the company remains "cautiously optimistic" oil prices will move upwards during the next few months. But, he added his company is also aware that might not happen and so is constantly reviewing its properties in the Lindbergh field.

With over 200 Westmin wells still producing and another 100 uneconomical wells shut in, Mann said the drilling of any new wells this year has been postponed.

And while Amoco Canada Petroleum announced in March it had shut in all of its producing wells in the Elk Point area, 55 wells were re-opened recently, according to Laura Hunter, company community relations coordinator.

Rumor that Amoco is pulling out of Elk Point was quickly denied by Hunter.

"Certainly not," she said.

"We've opened up some wells recently and we're still going through with our applications for proposed future development."

Amoco currently has 28 employees working locally and 137 wells shut in.

Construction of Murphy Oil's commercial project should be finished at the end of August, according to company spokesman Linden Bland. But the 53 new wells, oil plant and water plant will not be put into operation until oil prices show some sign of making a change for the better.

"We won't be starting it up. It's not worth it. It will be shut in and we'll wait and see what the prices do," Bland said. "That's 30 million bucks that's going to be just sitting there."

At present the company is continuing to operate only 12 of 16 wells in its pilot project and has a staff of 17 employees, many of whom are already on work-sharing programs.

Lee Beattie, regional manager of production for Pan Canadian, said that company has 55 wells producing and 27 employees still working in the area. Production on about 50 wells has been temporarily halted. But work on the company's new office complex in Elk Point is continuing with completion slated for some time in mid-September.

While the oil companies don't appear to have much faith in seeing better prices for their oil in the near future, many are clinging to the hope that the longterm outlook will be a positive one.

Sunny Sunday ordered for golf tourney

Warm, sunny weather has been ordered for the occasion, so come on out and enjoy a pleasant day of golf.

Hit & run still unsolved

Elk Point RCMP are still searching for the culprit in an early-morning hit and run accident over three months ago which caused $2600 in damages to two parked cars.

The incident occurred on Sunday, April 20, 1986 on 52 Avenue, Elk Point. The suspect vehicle is a maroon colored Ford or General Motors product which was last seen travelling eastbound on 52 Avenue that morning.

To date, no suspect has been apprehended. The Elk Point Detachment would appreciate any public assistance in regards to the identification of the driver or owner of the vehicle. Please contact Cst. Alasdair MacKinnon if you have any information in this regard.

Oil tank accident cause still under investigation

By David Menzies

An internal company investigation into the May 7 accident that claimed the life of a construction worker at the Murphy Oil plant in Heinsburg has failed to turn up "conclusive evidence" as to what caused the accident, says Linden Bland, Murphy Oil thermal recovery manager.

The early morning accident, in which an 8,000-barrel oil tank suddenly exploded, killed 30-year-old Melvin Waskiewich, while 21-year-old Brent Bechthold suffered lacerations of the face, a fractured right leg, and a broken wrist.

Bechthold has since been released from hospital.

The two men—employees of Manem Construction Ltd. of Calgary—were working on top of the 30-foot tank when the explosion occurred.

However, while both men were equipped with welding and grinding tools capable of causing sparks that could have ignited an explosion, Bechthold testified after the accident that neither he nor Waskiewich were using their equipment prior to the explosion.

Bland confirms Bechthold's testimony, saying results of the company's investigation revealed the explosion was ignited from the bottom of the tank, not the top.

He says it still has not been firmly established what caused an errant spark to ignite fumes inside the tank.

But he adds "there was a welding machine running and some construction going on down below" which could have caused some sparks to trigger the explosion.

Fortunately, there was only about 1,500 barrels of oil in the tank at the time of the explosion.

Bland says as a result of the accident, "we've tightened up our safety policies although we had a good system in effect at the time of the accident... we're strongly emphasizing that what happened was a freak accident."

A spokesman for the Alberta Occupational Health and Safety Division said its report on the accident is due for public release next month.

Cold Lake Resource Plan open house today

The Cold Lake/Elk Point integrated resource plan for public lands and resources will be the subject of an open house today at the Elk Point Elks Hall, going from 3:00 to 6:00 p.m. and 7:00 to 9:00 p.m.

Input into the terms of reference to determine the critical issues to be considered in the plan is needed, and public interest groups and associations, facilitate development of the oil industries and individuals have been invited to take part in the series of open houses at Grand Centre, Bonnyville and Elk Point this week.

The plan will focus on public land and public resources in the 3243 square mile Cold Lake planning area, which includes all of the Municipal District of Bonnyville and portions of Improvement District #18 south, the counties of Vermilion River and St. Paul. Forty-five per cent of the land in this area is public land.

This area has been identified as a priority in the 1986-87 integrated resource planning program because of the continuing and potentially expanding development of heavy oil and oil sands in the area. The plan will facilitate development of the oil resources while accounting for impacts on other resources and communities in the area.

Key issues will include agriculture, timber, wildlife, fisheries, recreation, tourism, historical resources, water, minerals, reclamation and socio-economic impacts, as well as cumulative impacts. Capability, present use, potential, and present sent and future demand are the major categories of information which will be utilized.

Heinsburg area grading project

Alberta Transportation will call for tenders to carry out a grading project in the Heinsburg area, Minister of Transportation and Utilities Al "Boomer" Adair and Lloydminster MLA Doug Cherry announced recently.

This project involves reconstruction (grading only) of 11 kilometres of selective sections of Secondary Road 640 from the junction of Highway 41 east. This regrading is required to bring the roadway up to standards suitable for surfacing.

"This project, which will benefit local, agricultural and resource-related traffic, is also a priority with the County of Two Hills Council," commented Mr. Cherry.

"Part of the program to upgrade Secondary Road 640, this project is scheduled for completion in the fall of 1986," stated Mr. Adair.

Elk Point District news

By Irene Magnusson
Elk Point old-timers will regret the passing July 13 of Emma Kietges, Lethbridge, formerly of Elk Point. Born Emma Magnusson, in N. Dakota, U.S.A., Emma came to Elk Point with her parents in 1909, and married Raymond Kietges a few years later. They retired to Lethbridge some years ago, where Ray died in 1980. They had two children, Evelyn and Vincent. Vincent passed away in Edmonton June 17, of this year. Emma was a sister to the late Clifton Magnusson; there is one remaining sister, Alberta, at Sangudo, AB. Evelyn lives with her family at Pincher Creek.

Half a hundred ladies turned out for the shower held for Sandra Babcock, on July 17 evening, at the United Church Hall in Elk Point. Raised in Elk Point, a former hairdresser, Sandra is now an R.N., and works at the Royal Alex in Edmonton. She will marry Joe Gaylord of Athabasca in Elk Point United Church, August 9th. Joe's mother, Mrs. Marian Gaylord, attended the shower, where all were entertained by Doreen Younghans' accordion accompaniment to a lively sing-song, the viewing of many lovely gifts and a delicious lunch served by friends.

Donald Vivian is that he is up and sitting in a chair part of the time. We all wish you the best of luck, Donald.

If anyone would like to go on a two-day bus tour to Leslieville, (close to Rocky Mountain House), let me know. Sharkey's bus is going from Heinsburg July 25th and coming back July 27th. I am trying to help them to get a full load.

Not much news to write about this week. We have had rain most of the time these last two weeks. Almost 3 inches in July so far in Dewberry, and more in the Riverton district. Cool and cloudy most of the time. Most of the gardens are good and the lawn needs mowing every 3rd day.

Dewberry News Roundup

By Cliff Cunningham

Wedding bells will be ringing in Dewberry again in the near future. Lori Ewen's shower was in the Dewberry Hall July 10th and Linda Frey's shower was in the Senior Citizens Drop-In Centre, July 8th. I hear they both got a lot of nice presents and hope you both have a happy married life.

Bobby Braithwaite, Bill Brock and Frank Smith went fishing last week up at Lac La Ronge and came home with some nice pickerel. They report the crops are good all the way up to that part of the country.

Fair time getting closer

By Irene Magnusson
My calendars are telling me there are exactly four weeks left before the Elk Point Ag. Soc. Fair. Time is running low for major projects, which I'm sure you all have well under control long since. Now to close in on the smaller ones. A little pressing on those sewing, knitting, or quilting articles. A special bit of care for those up-and-coming houseplants, and an eye out for vegetables that are doing well. Perhaps we could hold the old umbrella over the bean patch, with all this downpour, as insurance.

I've heard that some exhibitors do their baking ahead of time and freeze it until the right day comes along. I've never tried this, so can't be certain how it would work out - but it would certainly cut down on panic at the last moment. Check around, maybe your neighbor has done this.

Some of the grains are heading out, and so should be ready for picking when August 15th comes around. I'm sure there will be lots of hay, it does grow well with the rain, doesn't it? So plan on picking some of your best wheat, oats, barley or rye, and don't forget some Timothy or brome, these make such an interesting display, and could net you ribbons and $$.

If the strange things that went on this spring with the poplars, etc., in the wild didn't carry over onto the fruit bushes and trees, there should be lots of berries, and maybe apples, plums, and cherries. Watch for bugs - they are bound to do well in good moisture conditions. If we all bring a sample of rhubarb (3 feet long, 2 inches through) the Fair Board may have to hire another hall! But it has surely been crisp and tasty.

I want to reiterate - check your Prize List Booklet. These are available at the Lakeland Review Office, and from some Board members, and it tells you exactly how many, what size, how to prepare your entries. Don't do as I did last year (took 5 peas, when 6 were required, just because they asked for 5 beans) and mine were SO nice, too.

I am really looking forward to viewing all the arts, crafts and hobbies, there are always such an interesting and imaginative assortment. Elk Point and district folks are so talented. So do not fail to bring out all those things you've been working on over the winter. We do want to see them.

Remember - Fair Time is August 15th, for entering and judging, August 16th, for viewing and prizes. See you there.

The Fair Board members are busy searching around for some interesting displays of skills, new gadgets and perhaps some very old, all for our entertainment and enlightenment on Fair Day. Allow yourself plenty of time to study and enjoy them.

Finally - - - Sunshine

At last, summer's back.

Edmontonians and farmers along the swollen rivers who are in immediate danger of floating downstream. Many of whom have lost possessions and property acquired during a lifetime.

We're not sure yet that we won't have to build an ark and load the Town of Elk Point on it, two by two, but at least the sun is shining.

Hay swaths rotting, crops flattened by downpours and winds, other crops standing in water and turning a sickly yellowish green, and roads changed to mini-rivers have become a familiar sight during the last few weeks. We knew the sun was still up there, but we only saw it peeking through a minute or two at a time.

To say the least, we were all getting sick and tired of the wet weather.

However, we were luckier than many. Pity the poor tourists who found themselves stranded in the mountain parks by deep snowfalls -- they'll never believe in "Sunny Alberta" again. And of course, all the Thank goodness the founding fathers of Elk Point saw fit to build our town up high and dry, rather than on a riverside flat!

Now, perhaps, we'll get a chance to mow our lawns, weed our gardens, cut hay, get a sunburn and visit the beaches and campgrounds of our lovely lakeland.

Welcome back, Mr. Sun - we hope you plan to stay awhile.

P.S. If your editor has pushed her luck and caused another downpour with this editorial, please feel free to visit our office and batter her with your umbrellas!

The summer play program is well underway. In the morning sessions we have twelve children registered to date. They have been enjoying such activities as finger painting, coloring, playing with playdough, finger jello, and toys. The children enjoyed playing in the playground and park, on the nice days, where they got dirty, but had lots of fun. On Thursday we had a special birthday party for Duncan MacKenzie and Jordan Bassett. Both boys celebrated their fifth birthday on the weekend. For the afternoon sessions we have five children registered so far. We are hoping for more interest in this program. The children took part in such activities as volleyball, soccer, lawn darts, chinese baseball, etc. They have also done some crafts this week, and are in the process of making paper mache masks.

On Fridays the Lakeland Theater group come to work on their projects. Any youths who are interested may also come on Fridays.

Our home provinces at Expo

By Irene Magnusson

I hope no one is getting tired of Expo yet - there is surely much more to come. If you've been, you know. If you haven't, you should. Some of the Vancouverites are asking the powers that be to keep it there indefinitely, open every summer, for their use and for visitors. A good idea, I would say.

Certainly in my brief time there, I did not get to all the pavilions, and even those I did see are somewhat blurred by the very excess of sights and sounds and colors everywhere, so I'm not at all sure just where I saw this or that.

But my chief aim when I went was to see our own Alberta pavilion. After all, it was created in part by a local Elk Point boy, and I am loyal to Elk Point and its products anytime.

The firm of Sturgess and Andrishak of Calgary were the designers, and Gary Andrishak, son of Fred and Velma Andrishak of Elk Point lived a few miles down the road, I 'sat' him as a child, and he went to school with my kids, graduated out of the F.G. Miller High, and still comes to see me when he gets back to Elk Point now and then. So of course, I wanted to see what they presented to represent our Alberta.

For starters, it's the tallest building at Expo. Then it has these unusual skyline outlines, native to Alberta, grain elevators, a windmill, a skyscraper. The skyscraper is used to demonstrate a favorite Rocky Mountain activity, mountain climbing. There is a group of young people who daily climb this high tower, every hour all day. This is, of course, quite exciting - both to them and the viewers. They should not have to worry about going to fitness classes while Expo runs.

The elevators and windmill are non-functional, but give that Alberta look to the place. The main entry door is guarded by a largish dinosaur on either side, illustrating the real 'original' Albertans, those which populated our southern parts many millions of years ago, and whose remains are still being unearthed and studied and reconstructed - and will still be for centuries to come.

Inside, scattered throughout, is the wit and wisdom of one Bob Edwards, publisher of the Calgary "Eye Opener" in the early quarter of our century.

Films of the Badlands, rodeos, farming, livestock and a wild chuckwagon race are shown all-around-the-room, and while the pictures are great, they certainly didn't do any good for my sore neck. One has to look up so far, and follow the action in such wide turns, and of course the sounds are so very loud. This I found in many of the pavilions. They want everyone to hear it, but your head rings afterwards.

Further on, as you stand on a glass floor over a bed of wheat, the giant paintings change before your eyes, from fall to winter, to a wall of wheat, and NO one from Elk Point can miss the good old Elk Point scene, the three elevators with Alberta Wheat Pool and U.G.G. and Elk Point underneath (someone could have told them the A.W.P. moved) and the rest of it, all looking very much like home. These paintings are by Peter Shostak from Bonnyville.

There is much, much more, including the cityscapes of Edmonton and Calgary, with tiny windows on life in these cities, the children's play place, the ballet of the oilsands, samples of arts and crafts of Albertans, etc., and woven throughout are quips from life in Alberta as seen by Bob Edwards.

The exit area has a floor inlay to watch for, and overhead circle the names of every town in the province - including yours.

We feasted on buffalo burgers in the outdoor dining area, delicious and filling, and my hope is that they don't decimate the entire buffalo population before fall sets in.

Gary and Anne-Marie Andrishak and family came to see me at my son's house, and we had a jolly visit. I'm afraid B.C. has won out over Alberta, and they will probably remain in B.C. after the party is over. They are certainly enjoying their year there, but other projects await him in Calgary. My opinion is that they did Alberta well.

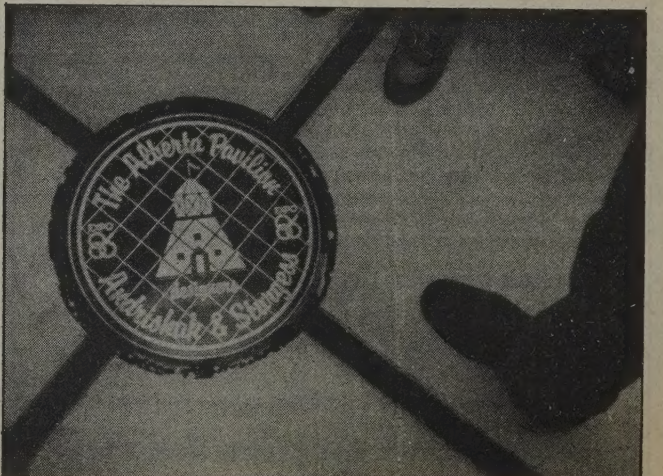

Another pavilion with the grain elevator theme is Saskatchewan.

Theirs is a tall, glass structure with a people-lift rising and lowering groups of viewers up the side. The view from the top must be spectacular, and I heard the show and displays inside were very interesting, down-to-earth and entertaining, but unfortunately, we spent our time there in the cafe, and didn't make it to the main displays.

But man cannot live by shows alone, and after a longish wait we lunched in the Showstage Restaurant, where we shared an utterly delicious turkey'n'fixings plate, with generous cranberry sauce, followed by rhubarb and raspberry pie - you can tell I was hungry, as I recall every bite! - and watched a show at the same time.

We were regaled with some of the snappiest Ukrainian dancing I've ever seen, by adult dancers, one set after another, very lively, and I must say if they keep that up all summer, day after day, all day, they should be in shape to take on anything or anyone by fall. (deep envy - sigh). A play then commenced, and I wanted to stay to see it, but remembering how long we waited outside for someone to leave to make room for us, we did get up and go when we finished our repast. Saskatchewan is a place to visit in full, when I go back - IF I go back.

I was going to talk about the B.C. pavilion, but will save it for another time. Every day the "Province" reports the Expo attendance for the day and the total to date. My last day there were 146,872, with a total of well over 7 million. It's funny, but you can walk with that many people in a fairly small area such as Expo grounds are, and not really feel crowded, but rather part of a joyful group.

I DON'T KNOW WHOSE FEET THESE ARE — But the inlay is near the exit from the Alberta Pavilion.

TALENTED WATERCOLORIST — Luci MacKenzie displays one of her delicate landscape paintings which are exhibited at Elk Point Municipal Library until Thursday, July 24.

Watercolors on display

A delightful exhibition of watercolor paintings went on display at Elk Point Municipal Library last Friday, the work of Luci MacKenzie of Langley, B.C.

Mrs. MacKenzie is a former resident of Elk Point, and the daughter of Paul and Lena Stepa. Many of her old friends came to view the exhibit, among them her former teacher, Bud Beattie, who warmly expressed his pride in this talented artist.

The twenty-one paintings are mostly delicate landscapes. Mrs. MacKenzie has been using watercolor as a medium for the last five years, before which she painted in oils.

One very special painting in the show is the work of her daughter, four year old Erin, who already shows promise of inheriting her mother's talent.

The exhibition continues until this Thursday, July 24, during regular library hours. If you haven't already seen these fine examples of watercolor art, you are cordially invited to stop by.

Mr. Ed Stockwell has a news report about the flooding of the North Saskatchewan River in 1915. Some of the humorous notes, at least to those 40,000 who came to watch, unaffected by the flood included a cow in a heavy wooden shute. As she floated down the flood swollen river, she snatched a mouthful of grass each time her "boat" came close to shore. A chicken coop with 20 chickens on top went past. One lady remembered her neighbours putting their chickens in the second storey of their home, then rowing over submerged fences to feed them each day until the water subsided.

Meanwhile, an ice-cream stand on high ground sold $500 worth in one day, and remember, that was in 1915.

Some of our Elk Point area neighbours were able to salvage lumber from two Edmonton lumber mills that flooded. Apparently, the present Cameron Isert home was built by the Kietges from lumber that floated down the North Saskatchewan river.

There was a great deal of hardship associated with that flood, and hopefully this time there will be less, with people and officials better prepared for such an emergency.

O'Kane family reunion

By Rosella O'Kane Hubka

"I'll be there!" replied 93 year old Johnnie O'Kane at the O'Kane family reunion in Minnesota in 1983 when his nephew, Ed O'Kane of Elk Point, Alberta, invited all to his place for the next one.

Here we are three years later and Johnnie O'Kane, now 96, with fifteen members of his family from Minnesota and Missouri and thirty-three descendants of Henry and Anna O'Kane from British Columbia and Alberta have turned the open space near the old log cabin into Tent and Trailer City.

There is a special meaning to all who are here for the reunion because of the bond that has been nurtured between the families. All of us are descendants of two dashing young Irish brothers, Henry and Johnnie O'Kane, who married two beautiful Irish sisters, Anna and Theresa Nolan.

Johnnie and Theresa were married in 1917 and farmed near West Concord, Minnesota. They reared eight children, four boys and four girls.

Henry ventured to the "New World", Canada in 1912 and homesteaded the NW¼-16-57-6-4 in Elk Point. In 1923 he returned to Minnesota to marry his sweetheart, Anna. By this time he had land in Carmangay but retained the homestead. So Henry and Anna went to their home in Carmangay. In 1931 they returned to the homestead to live. They reared six children, three boys and three girls. Ed and Jim still have the homestead. Jim lives on it and Ed lives a stone's throw away. Catherine Flagal resides in Trail and Mary Demers in Kamloops, British Columbia. Rosella Hubka lives in Claresholm, Alberta. Joe was killed by lightning in 1945.

Throughout the years the two families have kept in close touch, in early years by letter and as the years have gone by and transportation has improved, many have visited each other's homes. As we say our good-byes, deep down in our hearts we wonder if we will ever see each other again, and indeed, some we haven't; it was the final goodbye. Henry, Anna and Theresa are no longer with us. But our Johnnie certainly is, and is enriching our lives with his wisdom and stories of the past and present. Keen witted and clear of mind he remembered the way to the farm from town and the one and only time he was here was in 1946 when he and Theresa visited Henry and Anna.

Mary Demers put it well, "The only thing better than memories is making memories for others." That is what we are certainly doing. The sharing of our experiences has enriched all our lives. Brian O'Kane, twenty year old grandson of Johnnie and Theresa, summed it up for the younger generation, "I only wish more of us younger family members were here to hear the wisdom and share in the family pride that is happening at this great family gathering."

This family experience has gone beyond blood and beyond emotions that can't be explained. We are indeed creating new memories for ourselves and our children.

AUCTIONEER'S NOTE

Mr. Bill Maciborski is completely dispersing of all his business assets plus his farmland by unreserved public auction. With the addition of a few guest consignors, it has become necessary to hold a two-day sale. The above schedule of sale order and selling times should be considered as a guide only. We will certainly try to comply with these times as closely as possible but due to the large volume of items to be sold, we cannot guarantee precise times.

We would like to thank this opportunity to thank Mr. Bill Maciborski, as well as the guest consignors, for allowing us the distinct pleasure of conducting this upcoming two-day unreserved auction. We would also like to thank you in advance for your attendance.

Anyone requiring any additional information on the auction, is asked to please call our Olos office at (403) 556-7676 or the owner, Mr. Bill Maciborski at (403) 657-3303.

Watch for a detailed brochure in the mail the week of July 20th. If you do not receive a detailed brochure in the mail, please call Bill Maciborski at (403) 657-3303 or our Olos office at (403) 556-7676.
